

IN THE CLAIMS

1. (Original) An image display apparatus including an input unit, a computer body and a display unit, wherein said computer body comprises addition means for preparing a control signal Sc on the basis of an control instruction inputted by said input unit for adjusting a display picture of said display unit and for adding said control signal to a video signal R, G or B or a synchronizing signal Hs or Vs produced separately for driving said display unit to be produced to said display unit, and said display unit comprises separation means for separating said added control signal from said video signal or said synchronizing signal produced by said addition means and display control means for producing an adjustment signal on the basis of said control signal produced form said separation means to adjust display drive means in said display unit.

2-15. Canceled.